

Service Disclaimer

World Baseball Pathways
Effective October 5, 2026

This disclaimer explains the role and limits of World Baseball Pathways services.

Core principle: WBP helps people learn about and navigate baseball opportunities around the world, but does not guarantee any contract, opportunity, placement, or outcome.

Purpose of World Baseball Pathways

World Baseball Pathways ("WBP"), operated by DPH Ventures, LLC, is an information-based, educational, networking, and resource service focused on baseball opportunities and baseball environments around the world. Our goal is to help players and other participants better understand international baseball, learn about potential pathways, prepare themselves, communicate professionally, and access useful information and relationships.

No Guarantee of Opportunity or Placement

WBP does not guarantee any professional or amateur contract, roster spot, tryout, scholarship, compensation, playing opportunity, club response, team interest, admission, or placement. Purchasing a membership, consultation, webinar, country guide, contact list, promotional service, or other WBP service does not create a promise that an opportunity will result.

Independent Decisions by Clubs and Third Parties

Clubs, coaches, leagues, federations, schools, governing bodies, employers, and other organizations make their own independent decisions. WBP does not control their selections, evaluations, roster needs, compensation decisions, communications, or willingness to offer an opportunity.

Information May Change

International baseball information can change. League structures, team participation, import rules, schedules, compensation practices, housing arrangements, contact information, travel conditions, and other details may change without notice. WBP works to provide useful information but customers should independently verify material details before making financial, travel, employment, or career decisions.

Visa, Immigration, Employment, and Legal Matters

WBP does not provide legal, immigration, tax, or employment-law advice. Visa and work-authorization requirements depend on factors including nationality, destination, length of stay, compensation, role, and applicable law. Customers are responsible for confirming their individual requirements with the appropriate government authority and, where appropriate, a qualified professional before traveling, working, or playing abroad.

Club Contacts and Introductions

Providing a club contact, introduction, referral, or suggested market does not mean the club has requested the customer, has an opening, or will respond. Customers are responsible for conducting themselves professionally and evaluating the legitimacy and suitability of any opportunity or offer.

Travel and Personal Decisions

Customers remain responsible for their own travel decisions, health and medical needs, insurance, personal safety, finances, contracts, and acceptance or rejection of opportunities. Separate terms or participant agreements may apply to WBP-organized trips or events.

Our Commitment

WBP is here to help customers become more informed, prepared, and connected within the global baseball landscape. We aim to provide practical guidance, educational resources, and access to information that can help customers navigate international baseball more effectively, while being clear that final outcomes depend on many factors outside WBP's control.

Questions regarding this document may be directed to World Baseball Pathways through the contact information published on its official website.